Floral Travelling

Discover the Colors of the Earth

Discover the colors of the earth

Small rapeseed flowers grow from the soil, covering the entire land. While the coquettish posture of calla lilies is lovable in springtime, the fragrance of sweet-scented osmanthus rain in the air reminds us the coming of Mid-Autumn Festival, together with family reunion. Taiwan, located in the subtropics, manifests the exuberant vitality of nature through the fragrance and vivid colors of flowers. Let us visit the gardens and farms situated in countryside's and urban areas of Taiwan and appreciate the featured floral spectacles drawn meticulously by the seasons.

With distinguished farming techniques plus diversified terrain and climatic conditions, not only is Taiwan rich in various native flowers, a profusion of plants and flowers from foreign countries located in tropical or temperate zones have also been imported. All types of beauty converge, and the seasons are blazed with fascinating colors.

Every March when the spring season arrives, while azaleas and cherry blossoms vie with one another in beauty in Yangmingshan in northern Taiwan, cotton trees and golden trumpet-trees burst out like an explosion in southern Chiayi and Tainan regions. The remarkable, incomparable Taiwan International Orchid Show is also welcoming its grand opening during that same period; the romantic Chinese wisterias in April, the calla lilies of Yangmingshan keep up their spirits, the wild lilies on Turtle Island salute the arrival of spring; as the tung blossoms begin to snow in May in Taoyuan, Hsinchu and Miaoli areas, the poetic scene appears everywhere on this land; the gold rain brought by golden shower trees in June is accompanied by hydrangeas and lotus flowers which greet the guests in a graceful and dignified manner; while sunflowers are getting ready to meet summer season in July, large-flowered thunbergias are building flower corridors along the way; the land of East Rift Valley is covered with golden-yellow orange daylilies from August to September; the silver grasses will be in full flower on the way of Caoling Historic Trail in the invigorating, sparkling autumn when it comes to the month of October; in November as the deciduous cypresses in all parts of the country start to discolor on after another, the hidden utopias will always be teemed with crowds; from December to February of the following year, various kinds green manures including rapes, sunflowers, and cosmoses flourish to fill up the severe winter season with enthusiasm. Both Taichung Xinshe and the Coastal Range are falling into the sea of flowers in droves.

Here in Taiwan, the seasons are colored by their exclusive hues of certain flowers all year round.

Orchid

In Taiwan, a symbol of conveying blessings.

Orchidaceae

Season : All-Year-Round

Orchids belong to one of the most diverse plant families in the plant kingdom, with approximately 20,000 species. They can be found in almost every ecological environment on Earth, except for extremely cold polar regions and arid deserts. Due to their unique and highly ornamental flowers, as well as their adaptability to various environments, orchids exhibit a vast range of plant sizes and flower shapes. Orchids are an important category of ornamental plants in horticulture, with commercial varieties mainly divided into foliage orchids such as Cymbidium (Chinese orchids) and flowering orchids such as Phalaenopsis (Moth Orchids) and Paphiopedilum (Slipper Orchids).

Plum Blossom

Plums

Season : Jan to Feb

Following the blooming of plum blossoms, the snowy white plum blossoms cover the hillsides like a blanket of snow, often competing with cherry blossoms in a display of beauty. Their appearance resembles cherry blossoms, with delicate and misty clusters forming a pure white scene. However, plum blossoms can be distinguished by their smooth petal edges, bark without horizontal stripes, and small, delicate stamens, petals, and leaves. When the plum trees bloom, they attract bees for nectar and butterflies for pollination, creating a lively ecological scene. Plum blossom viewing is not only ideal for sightseeing but also perfect for an eco-tour focused on floral exploration.

May Flower

Mei Blossom, White Plum Blossom

Season : Dec to Jan

May Flower bloom in winter, with flowers appearing before the leaves. The buds resemble scaly bracts or bell-shaped tubes. Depending on the variety, May Flower come in a range of colors, including white, pink, red, purple, and light green, with white and pale pink being the most common. They have a delicate fragrance and can be found in both single and double-petal varieties. The fruit is a drupe. Plum trees thrive in environments with abundant sunlight, well-drained soil, and clean air—three essential ecological conditions for their growth.

Sunflower

You are my sunshine, my only sunshine

I'm Singer

Helianthus

Season : All-year-round (mainly Summer and Winter)

Sunflowers come in a wide variety of species, with different flower shapes including single-petal, double-petal, single-flower, and multi-flower varieties. While yellow and orange are the most common colors, some unique varieties feature deep red petals with golden edges, bronze-colored blooms, bicolor golden-yellow hues, and even white sunflowers. Sunflowers are known for their strong heliotropic nature, appearing to follow the sun, which is why they are called "Sun Flowers." After blooming, the central disk produces numerous seeds. In Peru, where most of the land is arid and receives abundant sunlight year-round, the sunflower has been adopted as the national flower due to its resemblance to the sun.

Lavender

A magical fragrance

Fragrant Herb, Yellow Lavender, Love Grassi

Season : Dec–May

Lavender is widely cultivated in gardens around the world. Its flower spikes can be used to make dried flowers and decorations, while the light purple, fragrant flowers and buds are perfect for making sachets and potpourri. When dried and sealed in small bags, they can serve as natural insect repellents. Lavender essential oil is widely used as an antiseptic and in aromatherapy for its soothing fragrance.

Pomelo Blossoms

Season : Mar- Apr

The pomelo blossom season always attracts large crowds of flower viewers. Walking through a pomelo orchard, the clusters of white flowers stand out against the glossy green leaves, filling the air with a fresh, delicate fragrance that leaves people feeling refreshed and uplifted. During the blooming season, farmers actively thin out the blossoms to retain the best-quality flowers, preparing for the pomelo harvest in September.

White Ginger Lily, Gingko Grass

Season : Jun - Nov

A perennial herbaceous plant with fragrant white flowers that typically blooms near water, mountain streams, and wild fields, resembling a group of butterflies dancing on ginger plants. It is commonly found in low-altitude, moist areas across Taiwan. The flowers come in pure white, yellow, golden yellow, pink, orange, and layered pink shades.

Cherry Blossom

Life is fleeing, embrace the moment

Prunus campanulata, Taiwan Cherry

Season : Jan to Apr

Commonly known as the Taiwan Mountain Cherry, this is the most widespread cherry blossom species in Taiwan. Among all cherry varieties, it boasts the most vibrant color, with its bell-shaped flowers hanging downwards. The species can be classified into single-petal and double-petal varieties. Single-petal blossoms bloom as early as December, while the double-petal variety, also called Yaezakura or Peony Cherry, blooms later. Additionally, a unique variety of single-petal cherry, known as the Zhuzi Lake Cherry Blossom, has a paler color and blooms later than typical Taiwan cherries. Every spring, the breathtaking sight of cherry blossoms covering Alishan attracts countless visitors. The major varieties seen there include Taiwan Cherry, Yoshino Cherry, and Yaezakura. Thousands of cherry trees bloom sequentially after the iconic "Cherry King" Yoshino Cherry in front of the Alishan Work Station makes its appearance.

Almond Blossoms

Jidi Flowers

Season : Feb

Cherry blossoms in January, almond blossoms in February—amidst this colorful floral world, the mountains are filled with the fragrance of tea and seas of pink flowers. Almond blossoms are ancient flowering trees valued not only for their beauty but also for their fruit, playing an important role in fruit production and urban beautification.In Taiwan, traditional architecture, including temples and old shop facades on Daxi Old Street, often features relief decorations of vases holding peonies and almond blossoms. Peonies symbolize wealth, while almond blossoms represent success in imperial examinations, and together in a vase, they signify "wealth and success." When in full bloom, almond blossoms present a stunning, rosy spectacle perfect for planting and appreciation. The "Almond Blossom Forest" in Maokong reaches full bloom from February to March each year.

Peach Blossoms

Season : Mar to Apr

Peach trees are categorized into two types: fruit peaches and flowering peaches. The blossoms bloom before the leaves, appearing singly with short stems. They are typically pink with five petals, and their color variations include deep red, bright red, pure white, and mixed red and white varieties, with some having semi-double or double petals. Peach trees prefer sunlight, tolerate cold and drought, but do not thrive in overly wet conditions; they are best planted in well-ventilated locations. Nectarines and flat peaches are cultivated for fruit, while ornamental varieties such as Shouxing peach and Bitao are used for decorative purposes.

Rapeseed Flowers

Season : Dec – Feb

Tastes great before blooms, looks great after.

Every November, after the autumn rice harvest, farmers plant rapeseed to be used as eco-manure during the fallow period. Around 40 days later, the rapeseed blooms into bright yellow flowers, offering a visual delight. In addition to their ornamental value, rapeseed leaves and stems are edible, and the seeds can be processed for oil or animal feed, making it a highly practical plant. The rapeseed enriches the soil, providing abundant nutrients for rice cultivation, which contributes to the production of Taiwan's famous Chishang premium rice.

Peony

A symbol of prosperity in Taiwan

Season : Feb – May

It is a deciduous shrub of the genus Paeonia in the family Paeoniaceae, known for its very large, multi-layered flowers. This hybrid cultivar originated in China and grows to a height of 1 to 1.5 meters. It has bipinnate compound leaves with leaflets often divided into 3 to 5 lobes. In early summer, it produces large solitary flowers in white, red, or purple. The carpels are borne on a fleshy disc and are densely covered with fine hairs.

Kapok Blossoms

Hero Tree, Red Cotton Tree, Bombax Tree

Season : Febr to Apr

Kapok trees originate from India and other tropical regions, making the warm climate of Tainan ideal for their growth. They produce abundant flowers and high fruit yields. Now widely planted across Taiwan, kapok trees are commonly found in gardens and along scenic roads. During spring, highways are lined with vibrant rows of kapok blossoms. The small, gray-black seeds are covered in long cotton fibers that allow wind dispersal. These fibers can be collected to make quilts, pillows, and jackets. Additionally, the flower buds and blossoms are edible and have medicinal uses.

Tulip

A Love Manifesto!

Lotus, Musk Grass

Season : Jan to Mar

Tulips take about 4 to 5 months from bulb planting to flowering, requiring strict temperature and light management, making the cultivation process quite complex. Therefore, it is recommended to purchase potted tulips with already sprouted bulbs from garden stores for easier maintenance. Tulips have a relatively long blooming period, typically lasting 3 to 4 weeks. Common tulip colors include red, yellow, orange, white, purple, pink, and various bicolored or patterned varieties with edges or stripes.

Golden Trumpet Tree

Dazzling golden brilliance

Tabebuia, Ipe Tree

Season : Mar – Apr

As the national flower of Brazil, the golden trumpet tree changes its appearance with the seasons. In spring, its sparse branches bloom with beautiful yellow flowers, in summer, it grows leaves and produces pods, and if you're lucky, you might see its winged seeds fluttering in the air. In autumn, it boasts lush green foliage, and in winter, its bare branches create a melancholic beauty. The tree showcases different charms throughout the year. Blooming around March, its flowers are funnel-shaped, resembling wind chimes, with ruffled edges and symmetrical sides in a bright yellow hue. When planted along water features, they stand tall and provide excellent views. However, be cautious not to touch the fine hairs on the flowers and fruits, as they can cause itching.

Calla Lilies

A heartfelt blessing

Zantedeschia, Water Arum, Spathes

Season : Mar – May

Calla lilies are divided into two main types: wetland and terrestrial. The wetland variety is the commonly seen white calla lily, while the green calla lily is a variety known as "Green Goddess." The terrestrial varieties include yellow and red calla lilies, which grow well in well-drained soil like other common plants. Calla lilies are Ethiopia's national flower, symbolizing honesty, making them a great gift for friends and a popular choice for weddings.

Iris

The Goddess Endorsed Flower Full of Luck!

Blue Butterfly Flower, Iris

Season : Apr – May

Iris flowers are delicate, yet large and beautiful, with three gracefully curved petals that encircle the flower's center. They come in a wide range of colors, including purple, yellow, and white. The English name "Iris" originates from the Greek goddess of the rainbow, symbolizing vibrant colors and serving as a bridge between the human world and the divine. The Chinese name (meaning"kite tail") is derived from the flower's resemblance to a kite's tail.

Silvergrass

Like white sea foam...

Saccharum, Wild Sugarcane

Season : Nov

There are four common types of silvergrass in Taiwan: Miscanthus floridulus, Miscanthus sinensis, Taiwan silvergrass, and alpine silvergrass. During autumn and winter, the most commonly admired species is Miscanthus sinensis, with its signature silvery-white plumes. As winter approaches, entire hillsides turn into a sea of white, offering a scenic transition from reddish hues to full silver bloom, and finally, golden hues as the season wanes.

Cosmos

Autumn Cherry, Five-Petal Plum

Season : Aug – Oct

Cosmos is an annual herbaceous flower that is easy to cultivate, and thrives in full sunlight. It has become a commonly seen wildflower, often planted in vast fields to create stunning floral seas during peak bloom. Due to its resemblance to cherry blossoms, it is also known as "Autumn Cherry," and is widely loved by the public. Cosmos flowers come in various colors, including purple, magenta, light pink, pure white, and bi-colored varieties such as white with pink edges or red with white streaks. In recent years, new yellow varieties have been introduced, adding even more diversity to cosmos fields。

Tung Blossom

Wrinkled Tung, Millenium Tung

Season : Apr – May

Tung trees are widely planted throughout Taiwan. Each early summer, the blooming of tung flowers can be admired everywhere. During the transition from spring to summer, Miaoli sees the most spectacular blooming, with petals falling like snowflakes covering the mountains. Tung trees bloom three times a year, with the well-known flowering season occurring from March to May. As the blooming period lasts no more than four weeks, the flowers are easily blown off by wind or rain. Additional flowering occurs in August-September and December, but with fewer blooms, resulting in a longer flowering period. In the past, many Hakka people cultivated tung trees as an economic crop, creating a deep connection between the tree and Hakka culture. Thus, tung flowers, known as "May Snow," have become a beautiful symbol of Hakka heritage, celebrated annually with the grand Tung Blossom Festival.

Lily

Formosan Lily, Morning Glory, Mountain Garlic

Season : Apr - Jun

Lilies are perennial herbaceous bulbous plants. Their bulbs grow underground in spherical or broad-elliptical shapes, appearing white or slightly yellow. Lilies thrive in sunny conditions but can tolerate partial shade. They are primarily distributed across East Asia, Europe, and North America in temperate regions of the Northern Hemisphere. Over 120 species have been identified worldwide, with 55 species found in Taiwan. In recent years, new varieties have emerged through artificial hybridization, such as the Taiwan lily, oriental lily, and tiger lily. Lilies are primarily grown for ornamental purposes, but their bulbs contain a rich amount of starch and can be consumed as a vegetable. In Taiwan, lilies are commonly used in traditional Chinese medicine and cuisine due to their high nutritional value. They are ideal for making soups and stir-fry dishes, offering both health benefits and delicious flavors.

Golden Shower Tree

Blooming during... graduation season

Golden Chain Flower

Season : Apr - Jun

Every summer, the golden shower tree blooms with long, cascading clusters of flowers. As the leaves gradually fall, the tree becomes covered with vibrant golden blossoms. Before wilting, the petals turn pale yellow or white, creating a stunning contrast with the golden blooms. Because of its magnificent appearance, the golden shower tree is also called "Golden Rain." The flowers typically bloom from May to June, and since many graduates take commemorative photos under these trees before leaving school, they are also known as "Graduation Flowers."

Roses

With love in the heart roses never wither!

Wild Rose, Thorn Rose, Wandering Flower

Season : Nov – May

Roses are hardy, perennial evergreen or deciduous shrubs that can withstand cold climates. Every year, new varieties are developed worldwide, with over ten thousand varieties currently in existence. In addition to their ornamental value, roses can be brewed into floral tea. Recently, "flower wine" made from organically grown roses has gained popularity. This wine, infused with vibrant red rose petals, enhances the color, aroma, and taste of traditional wine.

Azaleas

Rhododendrons, Forsythia, Mountain Pomegranate

Season : Mar

"In the light March days, azaleas bloom on the hillsides, and bloom by the streams, how beautiful they are!" This familiar song lyric describes the blooming period of azaleas. The cheerful melody reflects the vibrant colors of azaleas, which are easy to grow, have a long blooming period, and come in a variety of colors. In China, azaleas have long symbolized beauty and good fortune. Ancient poets often featured azaleas in their poems, adding to their charm. With their resilient nature, azaleas have been chosen as the city flower of Taipei and the national flower of Nepal, symbolizing inclusiveness and serenity. Azaleas have also become one of the most popular flowers in school campuses.

Hydrangea

Fireworks in Bloom!

Viburnum plicatum

Season : May – Jul

There are over a hundred varieties of hydrangeas, and their floral meaning symbolizes hope. During peak bloom, Taiwan is filled with vibrant hydrangeas in pink, white, sky blue, and purple, flourishing beautifully amidst lush green mountains. The captivating clusters of flowers create breathtaking scenery. Belonging to the Hydrangeaceae family, hydrangeas have large, colorful blooms that come in three shapes: spherical, semi-spherical, and flat. The most common commercial varieties in Taiwan are the globe-shaped hydrangeas, resembling traditional Chinese silk balls used in weddings, making them a popular decorative choice for festive occasions and as potted ornamental plants.
